

Chief Information Officer Lorrie Tritch Biography

Lorrie Tritch is a Public Service Executive 6 with Iowa - Technology Enterprise working as the Chief Information Officer (CIO) for the Department of Human Services. Lorrie has been with the State of Iowa for 33 years. Lorrie began her state employment with the Department of Human Services and for the latter part of those first 22 years, served as the agency CIO and then the Deputy Director for Administration.

Upon creation of the new State of Iowa Information Technology Department, Lorrie joined as leader for the State's Infrastructure Service division. In 2004 the Department of Administrative Services was formed and the Information Technology Enterprise was created. Lorrie remained in her leadership role for Infrastructure Services and later became the DAS-ITE Chief Operating Officer and interim State CIO.

Currently, Lorrie remains a member of the DAS-ITE team and serves as the Chief Information Officer for the Department of Human Services. She is responsible for leading and overseeing information technology agency initiatives as well as serving on the State of Iowa's Technology Executive Committee.

Lorrie has previously served as a board member of the American Public Human Services Association (APHSA), as the chair of the APSA-ISM (Information Systems Management) affiliate and as a board member of the Technology Association of Iowa (TAI). Lorrie has also chaired several State of Iowa technology related boards and committees.

Lorrie has a Bachelor's degree in Business Management from Buena Vista College in Iowa.